PROLONGED CONVENTION SEEMS LIKELY ON EVE OF OPENING OF DEMOCRATIC MEETING

CHRISTIAN COUNCIL TO ASK CANDIDATES TO ANSWER 'QUIZ'

Long Business Session Held By Body At The Westside Church

MEN ARE NAMED TO DRAFT QUERY

A Sabbath Observance League Here May Be Organized

At the Westside Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon the Albany-Decatur Christian Council held one of the longest business sessions since its organization several years ago, the time being taken up in a discussion of the best ways and means of making the weight of the council felt for good government. The council met near three o'clock and adjourned after 5 o'clock, on motion of Judge L. P. Troup.

Just before adjournment a motion made by Judge Troup prevailed without opposition, requesting that committees be appointed representing each Albany and Decatur "to offer a set of interrogations to each candidate for public office as to their stand on certain questions, and report back to the council."

The committees agreed upon were: For Albany, Judge L. P. Troup, Walter H. Hatchett and R. L. Maury; for Dr. C. C. Davidson, T. L. Baker and Dr. James D. Wallace. Another motion prevailed as offered by Dr. James D. Wallace, directing that the secretary of the council write to Rev. Bob Jones at Montgomery, and to the Secretary of the Men's Christian Council there relative to the organization at Montgomery of a Sabbath Observance League, that would have branch leagues in the counties of the state. Dr. Wallace stated that Dr. I. C. Hunt of Nashville, Secretary of the national organization called the "Lord's Day Alliance" would assist in the establishment of such a league in Alabama, if requested to do so. Dr. Wallace stated that Dr. Hunt's life was repeatedly threatened during his Sabbath observance campaign in Covington, Ky., where he assisted in an observance campaign.

Three invitations were given for the next meeting of the council, one from the Ninth Street Methodist church by Judge F. M. Hamilton, one from the Westside Presbyterian church by L. B. Friend and the third from the First Christian church by R. L. Maury. The invitation of Mr. Maury was accepted.

In the absence of the president of the council W. L. Hatchett, R. L. Maury, vice president, presided. The secretary John F. Lovin, read the minutes of the previous meeting which were adopted.

Preceding the business session, an attractive musical program was rendered, including a vocal solo by Claud C. Murphree.

The devotional exercises at the opening were conducted by Rev. A. H. Manley. Among those joining in the discussion as to the best means for bringing the weight of the council to bear in favor of good government were Rev. A. N. Fenland pastor of the Willowby Presbyterian church; Rev. W. B. Strong; George Redding, Judge F. M. Hamilton, Dr. James D. Wallace and Judge L. P. Troup.

Summer Storms Take Toll Of Four

(Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 23—One of the worst summer storms in years swept almost the entire upper Mississippi valley yesterday, taking a toll of at least four lives and doing hundreds of thousands of dollars property damage. Nebraska, South Dakota and Illinois were hit by the high winds and the hard rains.

HUNTER SPEAKS ON UNIFICATION

In his sermon of Sunday night preached to an appreciative congregation at the Central Methodist church, Dr. James D. Hunter, the pastor, reminded his congregation that July 2 the General Conference of the church would meet in Chattanooga and that the proposed merger of the Methodist Episcopal church and of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, would be dealt with then.

Dr. Hunter said that a crisis was being faced regarding the proposed union of the two largest branches of Methodism in the world. He cited a resolution passed at a General Conference of the Southern church at Louisville, couched in friendly language, in which it was indicated that Southern Methodists "shall be ready, kindly and respectfully to entertain and only carefully consider" any proposal looking to the merger of the two churches.

Dr. Hunter also referred to action of the General Conference of the Southern church in 1914, as declaring that "the unification of American Methodism is feasible and desirable."

In the course of his address Dr. Hunter spoke briefly on the leading questions connected with the proposed merger, and in a forceful manner indicated that he looked with favor upon the plan of union to be presented at the Chattanooga conference.

Huntsville Adopts Health Ordinance

A publicity and educational campaign on high grade feeds has been put on in Huntsville by the Madison County health unit, following strict city ordinances regarding pure food, stated Dr. B. F. Austin Madison County health officer who was here today.

The health officer stated that public notices are being given to the people as to what grades of milk according to official tests, were being sold by certain companies, and that in other days the people were being informed as to just what they were buying in the way of food.

UNDERWOOD MAKES PUBLIC TEXT OF HIS 'ANTI-KLAN' PLANK

Alabama Candidate Is On Scene To Lead His Campaign

CUMMINGS SAYS WAY OUT IS SEEN

Predicts Troubles Will Be Ironed Out In The Committee

(Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 23—Senator Oscar Underwood made his first appearance at his headquarters today to be greeted by his adherents and to make public the text of the anti Ku Klux Klan, Plank which will be presented to the platform committee in his behalf. Forney Johnston of Birmingham, selected to place the Alabama senator in nomination.

The plank re-affirms the party's declaration of 1856, directed against the "Know Nothings" and declares a similar issue now is pending in connection with the Klan. It says:

"We do re-affirm the principles set forth in said resolution of the democratic platform of 1856 and do condemn as unAmerican and undemocratic political action by secret or quasi secret organizations in furtherance of any political objective whatsoever and in particular do we condemn such action for the purpose of prescribing the political rights and privileges of citizens of the United States as is now proposed, practiced and publicly acknowledged by the organization known as the Ku Klux Klan and as may now or hereafter be proposed or practiced by any organization whatsoever."

NEW YORK, June 21—Homer Cummings, of Conn., who is slated to be chairman of the resolutions committee, predicted today that all trouble over the party platform would be adjusted in committee.

Mr. Cummings said supporters of a strong anti-Ku Klux Klan plank were disposed to be reasonable and with the statement of Tom Taggart, of Indiana, that a plank scoring secret organizations, without specifically naming the Ku Klux Klan, would be satisfactory, gave rise to the belief in some quarters that a plank, denouncing the Ku Klux Klan, without actually naming it, would be drawn in the platform.

Hendrix Returns Here With Hutto

Next Hendrix, special officer charged some days ago by Sheriff C. E. Pool with the responsibility of returning to Morgan County, John Hutto, wanted here by his bondsmen, from the Linden County jail, in Texas, has returned and placed his charge in the county jail.

Mr. Hendrix said that Sheriff Wallace of Linden, had received the reward money for the capture of Hutto, and that letters sent by Hutto to points in Texas led to his arrest. The man was found about 20 miles from Linden near the Louisiana state line. Mr. Hendrix stated that Hutto declared he was glad to be returned to the jail here as he was tired of "scouting around." Hutto is to be tried soon on a charge of violating the prohibition laws. He was under bond for $1,000 when he made his escape to the Lone Star state.

By securing his return, Hutto's bondsmen saved the difference between what it took to capture the man and return him here, and the cash bond amounting to $1,000.

CONVENTION BULLETINS

Sidelights On Gathering Of Hosts Of Democracy At New York.

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 23—A drive to swing the delegates from the Southern states into the camp of Governor Smith was instituted today under direction of Norman E. Mack, former chairman of the democratic party and one of the leaders of the Smith forces.

"Many of the Southern delegates," said Mr. Mack, "are coming to realize that Al Smith is the man to be named if we are to carry the industrial east and north states like Mass., Conn., New York and New Jersey."

"I am also assured that much of the opposition to Smith from the South is breaking down. This is the political change that I have noticed within the past 24 hours. Those close to Mr. Mack learned that every effort from now on would be to round up the Southern delegates under the Smith banner, either as a first or second choice."

L. B. Musgrove, of Alabama, chairman of the executive committee of the national Anti-Saloon League, issued a statement today declaring that the dry forces in the democratic convention absolutely stopped the progress of those who would liberalize the Volstead act.

Veterans among the democratic hosts gathered here for the party's national convention, refused to get excited over the agitation for the abrogation of the virtually century old two-thirds rule. Party historians point out that the rule by which a democratic nominator only is made by two-thirds vote of the convention since its original adoption and that repeated efforts to change it have been without success.

It was adopted first in 1823, but applied only to the nomination of a vice-president as Andrew Jackson had no opposition for the presidential nomination. On three occasions only has a candidate in a democratic convention failed, after receiving a majority vote, to attain the necessary two-thirds. They were Stephen A. Douglas, Martin Van Buren and Champ Clark.

SPECIAL PROGRAM ON CHILDREN'S DAY

The services at the Ninth Street Methodist church Sunday were largely attended and much interest was manifested. At the morning service the pastor, Rev. A. L. Mathison, preached on scriptural Sabbath observance as distinguished from a "worldly Sabbath."

The evening service was devoted to a program given by young people of the church, and to addresses by Dr. Walter P. McGlawn, presiding elder of the Decatur district and Roy Yarbrough.

The program was given under the direction of Mrs. Roy Yarbrough and Mrs. G. H. Wiggins. The pastor opened the exercises with scripture reading followed with prayer by Dr. McGlawn. The welcome to the large audience was extended by Mahlon Yarbrough and Dorothy McCluskey.

Edith Lee Mathison set forth the claims of the "Children's Day," and Dorothy Wiggins spoke most pleasingly.

Five little girls told "Why I love Children's Day." Howard Thompson spoke on "Only a Little Boy." Grace Hamilton on "Our Sunday School." Mary K. Mathison told in her message "There is a Place for You."

Annie Ferguson spoke on "Try It Out." Henlen Ross sang a beautiful song; Earnest and Evelyn Beard spoke on "Being Young;" Marvin Yarbrough on "Wanted a Boy." Then eight girls told of the loveliness of flowers and presented a bouquet to the pastor Rev. A. L. Mathison. Jack Ross and Louise Berryhill recited next. Earnest Beard spoke on "If every day were Children's Day." and Margaret Griffin gave a reading.

Twelve other girls spoke on Children's day and a solo was sung by Wilma Bloodworth.

Louis Lang spoke on "Who Comes Here," and Emory Howard refuted the idea that "Children should be only seen and not heard."

Many expressions of appreciation were heard for the efforts of the children and for those who trained them.

NO CLEAR TREND OF COURSE OF EVENTS HAS BEEN INDICATED

Fights On The Floor On Platform Planks Now Expected

UNDERWOOD HAS JOINED WORKERS

After Spending A Quiet Day With Friends He Begins Parley

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 23—Eleventh hour arrivals for the democratic national convention, thrust today into teeming lobbies and seething campaign headquarters, found themselves in the midst of a bewildering clamor of conflicting claims for various candidates and arguments over controversial questions of policy.

The swift current of Sunday maneuvering had brought no clear trend to indicate the course of events after the convention assemblies tomorrow, except that it is likely to be prolonged by fights on the floor over platform planks and possibly some of the rules as well as the battle for the presidential nomination.

With three of the most prominent active candidates on hand, their managers put still more pressure today behind efforts to consolidate their supporters for the opening of the convention and the squadrons from other camps did likewise.

Senator Underwood, of Alabama, reached New York yesterday, but did not join his workers until today preferring the seclusion of a friend's home in the outskirts of the city.

William G. McAdoo and Governor Alfred Smith, meanwhile continued conferences.

A tentative platform was almost ready for consideration of the resolutions committee, but the group of leaders which had drafted it, recognized that a number of its planks, especially those dealing with foreign relations, the Ku Klux Klan and law enforcement are likely to form the basis of vigorous and even bitter controversy before they are finally adopted.

The traditional party requirement of a two third vote to select a nominee remains the center of gossip over a rules fight, proposals to replace it with a rule permitting nomination by a simple majority, are advanced openly by a few but they keep bobbing about on the churning surface of pre-convention talk.

The general expectation of a lengthy convention was emphasized by the tentative slate of a program worked out by the managers. Conferences yesterday failed to bring a decision, whether the keynote address of Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, as temporary chairman, should be made at the opening session, or put off until night, so it could be heard by a larger radio audience than it could reach in daytime.

The complexity involving the lozen or so candidates today remained, outwardly at least, as cloudy as ever. Each of the headquarters continued to reiterate its expression of confidence. The McAdoo and Smith forces drove forward with new energy to strengthen their lines and the Underwood camp found encouragement in the arrival of their chieftain.

The West Virginia supporters of John W. Davis, meanwhile, pressed on with their campaign for delegates and friends of Senator Glass, of Virginia, professed to see an advantage for him in the situation exemplified by predictions that neither McAdoo, Smith nor Underwood could be nominated.

The expressed confidence that the field, eventually, would narrow down to Davis and Glass and that the Virginian would come out ahead.

Most of the dark horses, at the same time, are being kept more or less in the dark, while their managers express pleasure over the outlook.

Senator Ralston of Indiana will receive the vote of the state delegation.

TOURISTS ALLEGE THEY WERE FIRED ON

(Associated Press)

GREENVILLE, S. C., June 23—E. M. Ivey, and Herndon Thomas, members of an Atlanta tourist party were wounded in an exchange of shots with federal and prohibition officers on the Hendersonville highway, 13 miles from here. Members of the party later swore out warrants against Reuben Gosnell, federal dry agent. John McCauley, state constable and the latter's son. The two officers secured warrants for the arrest of the two wounded men, A. J. Martin and J. M. Foley, connected with two Atlanta newspapers were the other members of the party. They were uninjured. The tourists declared they were fired upon without provocation.

Hartselle Woman Is Hurt By Auto

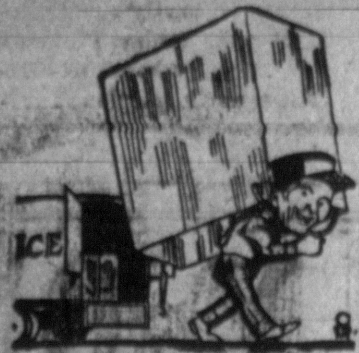

Mrs. J. L. Roberts, of Hartselle, is seriously injured, with one arm broken, as the result of the car in which she and Mr. Roberts were riding late Sunday overturning, stated Dr. D. W. Day, of Hartselle, who was here today.

Dr. Day stated the accident occurred in the main business section of Hartselle and was witnessed by many people. He stated he did not know who driving it, but that a car near the one driven by Mr. and Mrs. Roberts was coming up a dth at an effort to avoid the on-coming automobile Mr. and Mrs. Roberts were overturned. Mrs. Roberts condition may prove serious, Dr. Day stated.

Tickets Go Quick For Charity Game

Rev. Noble R. Edwards, teacher of the Y. M. C. A. Bible Class, suggested to the class Sunday morning, that he and all present, place "good works" ahead of "good teaching" by all hands getting busy for an ingathering of 25 cent pieces from all who would patronize the July 4 baseball game of the class, the proceeds from which are to go to a charity fund.

Rev. Edwards explained that the Kiwanis club would be matched against the Bible Class the afternoon of July 4 at the Malone park. The teacher sold a number of tickets to show how it was done, and Secretary Randolph, of the Y. M. C. A. gave out many hundreds of tickets to be sold by members of the class.

The tickets have been issued to the number of 3,000, and will be sold on all sides, by Kiwanians and Bible class members between now and the Fourth.

The class business meeting was presided over by C. W. Matthews, president, following the usual musical program of religious hymns: Mr. Matthews, as did many other leaders of the class, urged forward the good work of providing a large charity fund by the sale of entrance tickets to the match game July 4.

Where Bats Thrive
Bats are absent from the coldest parts of the world and are most numerous in the eastern tropics. They are characteristically tropical. In rather cold climates, such as that of Canada, some species have acquired a habit of migration, going south to some extent in the autumn, as the northern winters are too long to be survived in a state of uninterrupted hibernation.

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S.S.S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S. S. S. builds blood-power, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-blood. Fighting-blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 557 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes:
"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S.S.S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S.S.S. that did it."

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

In "The Green Goddess," the superb photodrama which will be presented by Distinctive Pictures Corporation at the Princess theater for two days beginning today, the patrons of this house will have the opportunity of seeing the greatest stage and screen actor of the generation—George Arliss. Year by year, with the perfection of his art, Mr. Arliss has been building a reputation throughout the United States and other countries for his ability to interpret a role with the greatest possible fidelity and artistry. His achievements, each one greater than its predecessor, have mounted steadily until Mr. Arliss stands alone at the top.

Having attained recognition as an inimitable portrayor of spoken parts, Mr. Arliss has within a very brief span of years leaped into the forefront of motion picture stars. His tremendous success on the screen is doubtless due to his absolute belief in the screen as a medium for the finest type of acting. He did not go into motion pictures for material gain—although his salary equals that of any other present day star—but for their possibility in permitting him to develop his art of mimicry to the maximum.

Continue Probe Of Accountant's Death

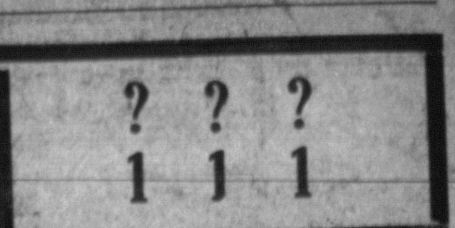

(Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Ga., June 23—DeKalb county officials today continued their investigation into the death of Oliver Nixon, 40, former bookkeeper for the Phoenix Supply company, whose body was found partly buried in Little Nance creek, one mile off Dunwoody road, near Chamblee, yesterday morning.

Nixon was last seen alive on last Thursday morning when he left the office of the company and said he would return Monday.

The Surprise That Startled Madge.

EVEN as the screams tore from my throat, I remembered with a Don Quixoteish reaction to my early Puritan training, that I had given my word to the leader of the bootlegging gang to make no noise if he would refrain from gagging me.

The thought choked me for an instant—made it impossible for me to utter another sound, although I tried to bolster up a more common sense view of the matter by the reflection that the threat which the man just had uttered, surely justified any broken promise on my part.

With a swiftly drawn breath, I turned toward the man who had sprung toward me at my scream, but for some unaccountable reason had stopped, and was standing with a fascinated, horrified gaze fixed upon the masked doors behind which we could hear the secret elevator slowly ascending.

Curiously enough my impulse was an apologetic one, although my reason strangely asserted the impulse seemingly outside my own volition which murmured:

"I won't scream again. I didn't mean to break my word to you."

I expected a swift stunning blow and the tumbling of my inert body into the truck for hiding, but instead the man whispered hoarsely without turning his gaze away from the doors:

"I won't do anything to you, and I'll let you go, if you'll say you're a friend of mine, and was only screaming for fun when he comes in."

Who is the Man?

His utterance of the phrase had all the effect of strongest emphasis, and the panic he was in testified to some unusual power up the back of the man who was ascending in the elevator. My heart began to travel upward from my boots. There was a chance that the unknown man before whose power this leader was cowering, might have the mentality to see what consequences putting me out of the way might have.

I resolved to make no further promise, but on the other hand I would not make the man more desperate than he was.

"If I can, I will say that you wish," I said, "but I won't promise anything more."

The doors swung slightly apart as I finished, and instead of a stranger, the figure of the driver of the truck appeared in the opening. His appearance was greeted by a volley of profanity from the leader, and a demand to know how he dared come up when he had been told to stay downstairs.

"Because His Nibs is downstairs asking for you," Ed replied, and the

IN THE CLOUDS

By Juanita Hamel

WHEN the clouds of the sky first appear, they're shapeless, formless mists covering the heavens. Then the mists part to reveal golden sunshine and the blue of the sky. Just such revelations the clouds formed by the smoke of his Pipe of Dreams bring to him—a glimpse of his dream of Paradise! And though this vision of beauty may disappear and only misty clouds remain, HE knows that somewhere there IS that Paradise and he may find it.

YOUR HEALTH

If Neuralgia Troubles You
Search for the Real Cause

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

THERE are many diseases with only one name. There are many called by several names. Then there are innumerable aches and pains and symptoms described by the one term—"neuralgia."

Neuralgia is an inflammation of a nerve, of a group of nerves or of the entire "nerve ganglion," as it is called.

The first symptom of neuralgia is apt to be pain. This may be localized in a small spot. It may follow the course of a nerve, down the arm, in the leg or in the back. If neuralgia is of the head, the pain may be widespread, or it may affect only one side of the head or face, the eye or the teeth.

Pain is not the only symptom of neuralgia. There may also be a sense of fear of greater discomfort to come, severe headache, vertigo, acute sensitiveness to heat and cold and even a feeling of general illness.

In every case of neuralgia the first thing is to find the underlying cause of the trouble.

You may be surprised to learn that your neuralgia has been brought on by rheumatism, gout, infected teeth, tonsils or sinuses. Tonsillitis, typhoid fever, measles, influenza and the specific diseases are often accompanied by pains of a neuralgic character.

Persons who suffer from gottre usually have neuralgia as an accompanying symptom.

If you have neuralgia don't waste time before having a very thorough physical examination. This should include the teeth, tonsils, sinuses, the heart and a urinalysis. In short, all the possible sources of infection should be considered.

There are many things that may be done to give the sufferer temporary relief.

Menthol, one teaspoonful dissolved in one ounce of alcohol, applied to the affected parts and then covered with a very hot towel, followed by a wet towel, gives relief. The application of heat and cold is effective.

Flash hot applications, capsicum vaseline, or an ice-bag are helpful to some a cases.

In some cases of facial neuralgia it is often necessary to inject alcohol into the nerves to relieve the intense suffering.

Freedom from drafts, keeping the parts warm and early and regular sleep, may help to coax sleep with its refreshing effects.

Evacuation, due to the need of a common cause for wandering and ill-defined pains in the head and back of the neck. Such symptoms are frequently described as neuralgia.

Tiny cavities in the teeth or diseases of the gums may produce painful symptoms.

All I have told you about neuralgia shows how important it is to have a careful survey of the body made, to make sure where the existing cause is located.

Answers to Health Questions

C. E. M. Q.—What causes a person's jaws to crack when eating, and how can this be remedied?

A.—This is usually due to lack of synovial fluid in the joint. Massage the affected parts with cod liver oil. This will help to correct this condition.

MRS. J. D. Jr. Q.—How can I remove moles?

A.—Moles may be removed by

THE HOME KITCHEN

Ice-Cold Desserts
That Will Tempt
in Warm Weather

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON
The Authority on Home Cooking

COLD dessert dishes are always a boon to the busy housewife, for they can be made in the morning and cooled in the refrigerator in the dishes in which they are to be served. Nothing remains to be done except to set them on the table when the time comes. This is better than working over a hot stove on a warm day when there are many other things to do.

Try the following recipes at least once. You will surely wish to try some of them more than once. Tarts are invaluable for cold service and as the fruit can be stewed and cooled with the crust in the cooking, these are quickly made. But only lemon tart makes the shells attractive. If fresh fruit is used, as a filling, it may be glazed prettily by passing a little melted jelly over it. For the crust in the oven a few minutes, then the jelly will adhere to the fruit. Rhubarb stewed, well sweetened, then drained, makes an excellent tart filling and may be decorated with a half-teaspoonful of apricot jelly.

Lemon Puff.

Put a pint of boiling water on a package of prepared lemon gelatin and strain it into a wet bowl to set. Have ready the stiffly-beaten whites of two eggs and a half-cupful of nuts chopped fine and a half-dozen marshmallows drained and chopped fine. Remove the gelatin from the ice and beat it up with an eggbeater. Then fold in the whipped cream. Place the gelatin in a glass dish and sprinkle it with the nuts and marshmallows. Serve lady-fingers or plain almond cake with the puff.

Baked Coffee Custard.

Bring a half-pint of milk and a half-pint of strong coffee to the boiling point. Add sugar to taste and remove the mixture from the fire. Beat it up with the beaten yolks of four eggs and the whites of two set two teaspoonfuls of vanilla and pour it into light-buttered custard cups or large ramekin dishes. Bake the custard until it sets in a medium oven. Have ready the stiffly-beaten whites of two eggs left, beaten with two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Spread the tops of the custard with the meringue, put them back into the oven to cook and lightly brown, then set them aside to chill.

Lemon Sponge.

Put a half-pint of water into a saucepan with a half-ounce of leaf gelatin, an ounce of sugar and a thick-cut lemon rind. Stir the mixture as it heats and until the gelatin is melted. Mix the white of an egg with the juice of a lemon. Turn the hot mixture into the lemon and egg and whisk all together until it is stiff. Pipe this sponge on a fancy dish and set it to chill. It is more convenient, instead of being beaten, the sponge may be turned into a wet mould to stiffen.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT One Mother in Business

MOTHER'S in business for herself.

And what's more she's been in business for herself for thirty years and it's a good, comfortable, bustling, prosperous little business and Mother makes a good, comfortable, prosperous living out of it.

Nothing great. She isn't buying stocks and she doesn't take up much time or energy cutting coupons, but she owns her own little home and has a good maid to take care of it. And she owns a modest little car, and the maid can drive the car, too, and, dear me, what good times they do have, these lovely days—the maid and the mistress driving out into the country after wild flowers and things!

Mother goes down to the business every single day of her life—and that's the trouble.

Son-in-Law is her assistant and he thinks that Mother ought to retire and let him have the business.

He's made his wife think so, too, and his mother thinks so and so his brother and his brother's wife.

They can't see why, on earth, Mother won't step out of the way and give Son-in-Law a chance.

Mother Has Other Ideas

Mother is nearly seventy years old. She's had the business ever since she was a young widow. She's worked hard and she's proud of her modest success.

What does Son-in-Law want her to do, anyhow, sell out and come and live with him and his wife and sit in the corner and darn stockings the rest of her life?

Oh, no, he doesn't want that. He wants her to go on living in her own house and leave him and his wife in their own house. Of course she wouldn't have as much money as she has now, but she'd have her chance. Why not get out of the way and give Son-in-Law a chance?

And he sat down the other day and wrote me a letter about it—yes, he did, as calm as a clock, and you can see that he thinks he's absolutely right.

What do I think?

Well, I think he's absolutely and completely and positively wrong, from beginning to end, up and down, back and forth, over and under.

Mother worked hard for years to make that business pay. Nobody stepped out of it and gave it to her—just for luck. She schemed and planned, and saved and worked, to get the money to buy it, and after she bought it she schemed and planned and saved and worked to get the money to keep it. Why should she, in her old age, turn it over to someone else?

What's the matter, Son-in-Law, can't you wait for Mother to die? You have a rather good thing of it in your own job—why aren't you satisfied to keep it, and if you aren't satisfied, why don't you step out yourself, and get another job?

If you're competent to take entire charge of this particular business, you ought to be competent enough to get another business—for yourself.

Can You Blame Her?

Don't sit around waiting for dead men's shoes, sometimes they turn out to be a bad fit—and you can't tell how they might pinch your toes.

Good for Mother! I like her independence and her good, sturdy common sense! Maybe she doesn't think much of your business ability, Son-in-Law. Maybe she wonders why you've never made an independent place for yourself somewhere and maybe she's afraid to trust you with the business.

You can't really blame her, can you? Do you know anyone that you'd trust to step into your place and manage your affairs while you were still perfectly able to manage them yourself?

Tut, tut, Son-in-Law, you're a man, aren't you?

Why don't you act like one?

What Beauty Rest Means to Loveliness

By LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

"SHE'S a perfect creature about getting her rest." I sometimes hear this said of a person. "She not only insists upon going to bed early, but she stops and rests during the day."

And probably the woman who is speaking is a trifle put out because the person in question will not come on a hard shopping expedition with her, or refuses to go to some late party at night because she has to get up early the next day.

Now this person in question is very sensible. Of course, there's no use being a bore to your friends just because you insist upon getting your full quota of sleep. But if you are a very wise person to insist quietly upon it, and let a few pleasures that would interfere go by.

Indeed, far too many women go to the other extreme and think, "Oh, dear, I'll never be young but once, and I might as well go ahead and enjoy myself."

If you insist upon curtailing your hours of sleep and rest, you will not be young for long. There is no doubt that continued strain wears down your resistance, and makes inroads upon your health, however gradual these inroads may be.

Gradually your eyes will lose their freshness and brilliancy. You will notice this yourself, but some old friend who has not seen you for a while could tell you about it, if she would be honest with you.

Then come disfiguring circles under your eyes, which you will have to notice yourself in time—for they are not the kind of beauty blemishes that can escape your attention for long.

Then there are other ways in which fatigue makes itself known. Your muscles may feel strong enough and go on doing their duties, but your nerves may become quite shaky. You may find that small things worry you unduly and bring a perturbed expression to your countenance.

All of these things are signs, my dears, that you need more beauty sleep and rest. There is nothing to be done about it, and you will be very foolish to continue seeking substitutes, for they will tell upon your health in the long run.

Do not be afraid to refuse invitations, no matter how pleasant they promise to be, if you do not really feel up to enjoying them. A party is soundly very attractive at night, but when you realize that the loss of sleep is entailing weakness, make the following day when they are crying out for their proper amount of rest, you may decide that the game is not worth the candle.

Of course, all of us have to go without our eight or nine hours of sleep occasionally. But when this happens, the clever thing to do is to make it up at the very first opportunity that presents itself. When you have lost sleep, set a do the first convenient night, go to bed very early and make up the rest you have lost. You will be a wiser and a better person for this, and mention being a more beautiful one.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

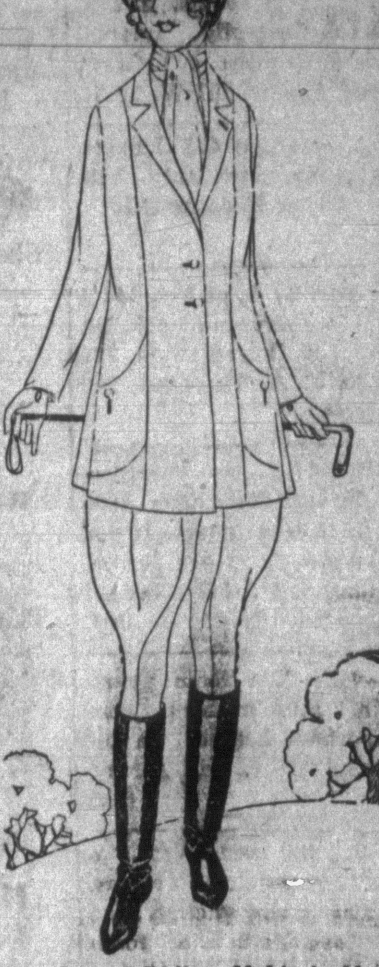

By Genevieve Kerable
TUESDAY, JUNE 24.

Although the friendly aid of Jupiter is assured in this day's planetary operations yet it may be difficult to avoid some anxiety in business as well as in domestic and social matters. Those in the employment of others should be careful not to jeopardize their positions and all should refrain from disagreements with those in places of power.

Those whose birthday it is may have a troublesome year in business or in the home, although the major benefic, Jupiter, may assist over difficult places. A child born on this day may have difficulties to surmount unless it is well trained, but the forecast is favorable for success in its undertakings.

GLAND THEFT VICTIM ACCUSES MURDERERS.

In this remarkable photograph Nathan Leopold, Jr., of Chicago, one of the murderers of kidnapped Robert Franks, is shown when he passed Harry Ream (pointing), youthful taxicab driver, who positively identified him as one of the two men who abducted him last Fall, threw him into an automobile, chloroformed him and subjected him to a mutilating gland operation. Ream also identified Richard Loeb, the other murderer, as the second man in the crime.

Rivers Figures In Second Accident

Marvin Rivers, who as by a miracle escaped fatal injuries last week when his car collided with an automobile driven by T. O. Lee on Fourth avenue and Jackson street, has sufficiently recovered to go from the Benevolent hospital to the home of his uncle, A. M. Lentz, of the Aycock Dry Goods company.

Mr. Rivers is recalled by many here as one of the Southern Railway employees who several months ago was the victim of a "cave-in" with serious consequences. Rivers had been in a Chattanooga hospital for months from his Southern Railway injury when he came here almost meeting death for a second time. Great surprise is expressed by those who saw how badly Rivers was bruised up in the local accident, to know that he is almost himself again.

ALABAMA FIGHT HAS NOW "BLOWN OVER"

(Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 23—The threatened fight against the Alabama Underwood delegation over the selection of which a snarl developed centering about legal technicalities, will not materialize it was said today by leaders in the delegation who anticipated leading the fight.

The acceptance of the Underwood forces of 15 out of the 24 delegates who are definitely committed to the program of the dyes is reported to have been the basis on which a compromise was reached.

The delegation will be for Underwood on the balloting, but is reported to have been committed to a dry plank in the platform.
